OUR PROGRAMS

Community Writing Programs

We partner with community groups, nonprofit organizations, and educational programs throughout the greater Indianapolis area to design and facilitate literary arts programs that fit their needs.

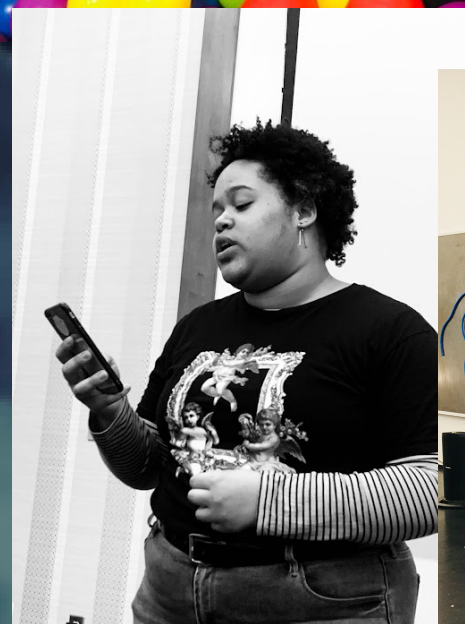

Young Writers Workshops & Brave New Voices Team

Throughout the school year Word conducts a series of free creative writing workshops for Indianapolis area teens and young adults. In the workshops, writers are given an opportunity to express their own ideas and join in community with other young writers.

Participants in these workshops also have the opportunity to earn a spot on Word's Brave New Voices Team. Brave New Voices International Youth Poetry Festival convenes leading youth poets from around the world for workshops, slams, showcases, and civic participation.

ARC Writers Collective

Every first and third Sunday, ARC brings together Black women writers to support each other as they develop all aspects of their writing lives.

OUR MISSION

Established in 2013, Word As Bond, Inc. (Word) offers literary arts programs that provide forums for self-expression and community empowerment to Indianapolis area writers, especially youth writers, from all walks of life. We believe that by sharing their stories and making meaningful connections with one another these writers will come together to transform their lives, our community, and the world.
